

OCTOBER 2017 NO. 289

As the warmer weather sets in, we're delighted that so many initiatives are taking off through our network around Australia. While our work is wide-ranging and diverse, a key focus is empowering leadership for peace and trust building in both local and overseas communities. Read on to see how you can be a part of it!

Newsbriefs is the bi-monthly newsletter of Initiatives of Change (IofC) in Australia – part of a worldwide movement of people of diverse cultures and backgrounds who share a vision for a just, peaceful and sustainable world.

'Track 3 Diplomacy' Connects Australia with Asia

Since the 1950s, Initiatives of Change (IofC) has promoted connections between Australia and countries in the region, to develop people-to-people solutions to some of the world's most pressing problems. This year's Asia-Pacific Regional Gathering of IofC people pondered on emerging challenges. Read more.

Life Matters: Linking Personal Growth to Action

A chance encounter brought university student leader Marlous Teh to her first Life Matters workshop. She had attended personal development courses before, but this one was different - inter-generational, quieter, and more reflective. Delia Paul speaks with Marlous about her experience. Asia-Pacific Youth Conference

27 December 2017 to 3 January 2018: Applications are open now for the 23rd APYC on the theme 'The Future We Want'. Held in Panchgani, India at our Indian Centre for Initiatives of Change 'Asia Plateau'.

The conference will see more than 140 young leaders come together for 8 days for a series of workshops, panel discussions, guest speakers, leadership activities, cultural exchange, and leadership and peace-building development. The conference is designed to empower young leaders to address issues of concern in our region and countries, to form networks and teams across countries and to plan action at local and/or regional levels.

This conference also offers reflective spaces and activities for self-inquiry, so that we may better understand ourselves and what is blocking us from having a more positive impact on the world around us. Included in the conference will be cultural outings and the chance to explore surrounding villages and the organic farm and livelihood training centre 'Grampari'.

Some limited funding is available. More information is here: <http://www.iofc.org/2017-2018-asia-pacific-youth-conference-india>

REVIEWS

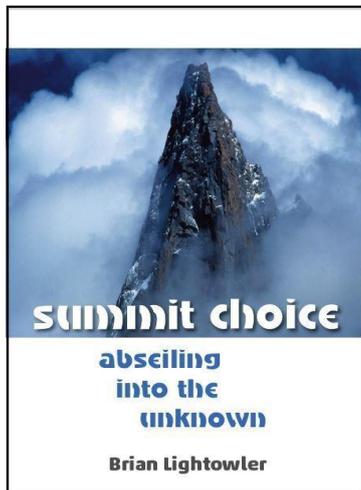

Visier Sanyü: A Naga Odyssey

Visier Meyasetsu Sanyü was born in 1950 into a world that came apart in 1956, when the Indian army invaded Nagaland. His village was burned down and his family, like the other villagers, lived in the jungle for three years, hunting and gathering plants.

Against all odds, he finished school, received his Ph.D. and became the inaugural Head of the Department of History at the University of Nagaland. Together with his wife and three children, he came to Australia in 1996 as a research fellow at La Trobe University. He is a current President of the Overseas Naga Association, and an International Elder of Initiatives of Change.

In this book, written with Richard Broome, an Emeritus Professor of History at La Trobe University, Visier tells his extraordinary story. Read more.

Brian Lightowler: Abseiling into the Unknown

Brian Lightowler has had more than half a century of daily practice in the principles and application of Initiatives of Change, or 'Moral Re-Armament' as it was called when he first encountered it. In the book, which presents his life story, Brian wrestles with understanding the motivation of a militant Communist, an 'extremist' who had killed men in his doctrinaire passion for class war. In America, he finds himself enmeshed in the raw forces of racism and joins actions in Kentucky and Georgia trying to overcome them. With a group of friends in Queensland, he takes a pledge to counter the police/political corruption being exposed and it grows to a series of 'Clean Election Campaigns' in half a dozen countries.

Reading the book, Mike Brown finds that the issues today are similar, as are the gut feelings behind the issues—the same basic raw drives in human nature. At this level, the message and approach of Initiatives of Change remains fundamentally the same: that only through deep transformation in people's thinking, behaviour and relationships does anything begin to change in the world around us. Read more.

GET INVOLVED

Initiatives of Change prides itself on being a big family, nationally and internationally, and there are many ways to be involved. As a volunteer, you are welcome to join our bi-monthly social catch-ups and workshops. These are a great way to meet new people and also to get to know more about lofC. Volunteers also have access to the lofCA mentoring program, with experienced people who have worked for many years in peace and trust-building initiatives all around the world. See more about our mentoring approach here: <http://au.iofc.org/mentoring>.

There are many areas you can volunteer in, depending on your skills sets and where we have a need. These include roles in administration, finance, hospitality, event management and communications. If you are interested, please contact Volunteer Co-ordinator kirsty.argento@iofc.org with an introduction about yourself, your motivation, and your area of interest.

Your donation allows Initiatives of Change Australia to sustain its trust and peace building work. An investment today will deliver benefits for many years to come. Every donation, large or small, has a direct impact on the individuals and communities with whom we work.
