WAYAPA WURRK

Trustbuilding grows with connection to Country

9 am

Uncle Shane Charles welcomes Alana Marsh, a proud Torres Strait Islander woman, to lead us in a practice of Wayapa Wuurk. Drawing on First Peoples' wisdom, this embodied practice of mindful movement honours our own connection to Country.

Alana is a dynamic First Nations changemaker who shares insights about the truth telling required for more meaningful reconciliation relationships with each other and with our environment.

DIALOGUES FOR CHANGE

Trustbuilding with deep listening

Uncle Glen Loughrey is a respected Wiradjuri man, community elder, artist and priest living on Wurundjeri Country, Melbourne. He is invited by Uncle Shane to lead us in an inclusive dialogue that inspires forgiveness and a sense of shared responsibility, rather than feeling colonial shame and guilt. Listen deeply to his call and be empowered to take local action.
